DEATH OF JUDGE HOLMAN

Unable to Recover From the Effects of His Recent Accident.

LAWYER AND LEGISLATOR

Family Present at His Death-Had Served Fifteen Terms in Congress. Thought at Times There Were Favorable Symptoms During His

Judge W. S. Bolman, Member of Congrees from Indiana, died at his home, in this city, No. 2125 R street northwest, yesterday aftersoon, at a few minutes after 2 o'clock the immediate cause of his death being acuce cerebral meningitis.

At his bedside when he died were all of his immediate family, W. S. Holman, jr, and Paul Bolman, his two sons; his two daughters, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Harvey, and his nephew, Lieutenant Commander Vail and Mrs. Vail.

The family had been waiting in a terrible suspense since Wednesday right, at o'clock, when the fever of the brain covering, accompanied by a general fever developed, making recovery impossible, in the opinion of his physicians, Dr. W. Page

Burwell and Dr. S. S. Adams.

Judge Helman's fever increased all th time during Wednesday night, and shorily before he died his temperature was above 105 and his respiration from 58 to 60 a minute. During all this time he was in a comatose condition.

Judge Holman feli on Dupont circle thre reeks ago, with an attack of vertigo, after alighting from his car on the way home one afternoon. His age and various latent troubles made this fall serious, although it was at first thought that he might not have suffered any great injury from it Liver and kidney disorders set in, and after a little while acute ja indice.

He would not acknowledge that he was seriously ill, however, and in a few days arose from his bed, though not leaving his room. His physicians began to hope at this time that he might recover. He was much weakened by his siege, however, and soon his condition became plarming again. During all the latter part of his sickness he had been irrational at times. His brain had not been able to overcome the stupor of its jaundiced condition. Since Tuesday he had not recognized any one.

Judge William S. Holman was nearly seventy-six years old. He was born in September, 1822, at Veraestau, the pioneer homestead of his father, in Dearborn county, Ind., which has continued to be his borne all his life. His father was prominent in the early history of Indiana, and named coming to the Senate on one occasion by only one vote. Vernestau was a great farm, running a mile or more along the banks of the Ohio River, and was o cupied by him as a ploncer homesteader eighty years ago.

Young Homian received a common school education, and studied at Franklin Col-lege, Indiana, for two years. He then taught school, studying law in the evening, and was admitted to the bar at a very early age. He was judge of the probate court when he was only twenty-one years

He was prosecuting attorney from 1847 o 1849, was a member of the constituional convention of Indiana in 1850, became a member of the Indiana legista ture in 1851, and was a judge of the court of common pleas from 1852 to 1856.

Judge Holman came to Washington first as a member of the Thirty-sixth Congress, nearly forty years ago, and, with few then. He was a member of the Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth, Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-second, Fortythird, Forty-fourth, Forty-seventh, Forty eighth, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Pifty-first, Fifty-second, and Fifty-third Congresses and after being retired during the Fiftyfourth was elected to the Fifty-fifth as a Democrat, against Marcus R. Sulzer, the Judge Holman's career in Congress has been notable particularly for his dogged resistance to what be considered extravagant legislation. On many occasions h has used all the arts of obstruction he knew to defeat large expenditures; and frequently be has been successful in forcing his ideas of economy. His record in this way has earned him the little of "Watch Pog of the Treasury," which he is said to have relished very much in a quiet way

In his privatelife, however, Judge Holman was the very opposite of niggardly. He was so generous and charitable that during all his long life he has acquired no fortune but remained always comparatively a poor man. The old homestead, where he was born, has comprised nearly all of his possessions.

Judge Holman has ted a most active life He very seldom took any rest from his labors, and in his work itself was most uneconomical of his strength. He seemed to abhor sitting down, and as he talked or dictated his letters continually paced up and down, until with his friends this habit had secome characteristic of him. He was almost never ill during all his life.

Judge Holman's home, in southeastern Indiana, on the Ohio, is said to be one of the most beautiful sites on the river, or anywhere else in the country. Part of the old farmbouse, built by Judge Holman's father, still stands. To this large additions have been made from time to time until now it is a great house, stretching over much ground and containing many rooms. The house is built on a great bluff, 500 feet high. From its porch can be seen great stretches of the Ohio River, and parts of three States. The smoke from Cipcinnati, twenty-five miles distant in the east, is often visible, and across the Ohio.

in Kentucky, seven towns can be seen, and the hills thirty miles away. Judge Holman was a great lover of trees and flowers, and never allowed any of those on his place to be cut down

A NEW SOLICITOR GENERAL MINYO

Judge Day, It Is Declared, Will Soon Succeed Mr. Conrad.

Pressure on the President to Commute Fearson's Sentence-Mr. Mc-Kiuley Will Probably Not Interfere in the Chapman Case-Illinois Politicians Present Their Claims.

It is said that President McKinley has decided to appoint Judge William R. Day as Solicitor General to succeed Holmes Conrad of Virginia. This, however, will not interfere with Judge Day's mission to Cuba, and he will not enter upon the duties of his new office ditti he has thoroughly investigated the Ruiz case in all its details and submitted his report to the President.

The story is that the Canton lawyer will only hold the office of Solicitor General until July, when he will go into the Cabinet as Attorney General to succeed Judge McKenna. The latter will be appointed to a place on the Supreme Bench, on the retirement of Justice Field, who will in July have served longer than any other man in a similar capacity, not excepting John

. It is said that Judge Day has gone hor to straighten up some business affairs, and also to inform his law partners of his nation to take up an official residence in the National Capital after his return from Cuba. He is expected to re-turn to Washington tomorrow, and will robably leave for Havana next week. A strong effort is being made to induce President McKinley to commute the sentence of Lum Fearson. T. C. Taylor, the attorney for Fearson, called at the White former with the President. He informed Mr. McKinley that both Judge Cole and District Attorney Birney had agned the petition for commutation of sentence, also that the law passed by Congress seven days after the conviction of Fearson, giving to juries the power to do away with capital punishment, was practically an abolition of the death sentence in the District.

The President gave no intimation what he intends to do. The general impression is that he will not interfere and that Fearson will hang on the day appointed for his execution.

Two prominent Republican politicians from Illinois were callers at the White House yesterday One of them, ex-Alderman "Marty" B Madden, was the machine candidate for the Senate, and was prom ised the warm personal support of Gov. Tanner: "Jim" Pease, otherwise known as "Tommy the Promiser," and other prominent leaders of the Prairie State. At the last moment, however, the men who promised to faithfully stand by Madden, knifed him, and he was defeated for the position. Madden did much to elect Tayner as governor, and after his defeat he openly accused the latter of treachery Alexander H. Revill, a Cincago politician, accompanied Madden to the White House. Both positively refused to divulge

Forty-five beautiful young ladies, ar-rayed in multi-colored gowns and bounets, paid their respects to the President. The entire party was from the Vir gima College for Young Ladies, of Roanoke, Va., of which institution Miss Harris is principal. Each of the young ladies was prescuted separately to the President. Ex-Representative Watson, of Ohio, is urging E. J. Miller for the position of collector of customs at Columbus. Mr. Miller has the indersement of both Senators Hanna and Foraker and the entire Republican Congressional delegation of the State Representative Brumm, of Pennsylvania, saw the President in reference to the appointment of State Senator Coyle, who wants to be appointed to a foreign con sulate, and ex-District Attorney J. Harry James, who is a candidate for a deputy suditorship.

Important Orders Promulgated by the Commissioners. The beginning of a movement upon the part of the District authorities to secure better sanitary conditions in the city, and for the protection of the public health against the disorders incident to uncleanly premises and overcrowded tene ments, was made yesterday. The Comdissioners officially promulgated an order making it the duty of the owner of public aldings to provide them with adequate facilities for heating, ventilating, and lighting the same, and also with suitable closets; to keep the roof tight, and in good repair, and to cause the area to be properly graded, paved, and drained. The occupant of such premises, or, in the absence of a tenant, the owner, is obliged to keep the grounds clean and wholesome, and failure to do so will subject the offender to punishment Overcrowding of workshops, factories or other places of employment is forbidden and all such must be properly lighted, heated and ventilated; also the use of rofor sleeping where there is less than 400 feet cubic contents for each person over ten years of age. This provision applies to lodging-houses, and the health officer is authorized, when necessary, to place a placard on the door of each room in such houses, upon which shall be stated the
